SHOT IN PISTOL DUEL BURGLARS FIGHT POLICE

RELIEVED OF WATCH BY GYPSY WOMAN

Police of the entire country are searching for the band of gypsies who recently passed through Concord. L. Rassmussen connected with the Elmhurst Rug Works and living at 1936 Sixty second avenue Oakland, was plodding along the road near Concord when three wagons carrying gypsies hove into sight. The first two passed by. The third stopped and a gypsie woman stepped down from it. The well known story of "Tell your fortune meester" was forth coming. Upon request Rassmussen placed a 25 cent piece in his hand. He was told to close his hand, and the woman explained that he would soon be wealthy, if he wasn't already. The woman took the 25 cent piece and slipped it into Rassmussen's pocket.

Then she returned to the wagon and procession drove on. A few minutes later, Rassmussen put his hand in his vest pocket to get his watch. It was not there. The quarter was.

The watch was a valuable one.

"I walked into Concord," Rassmussen said last lingt, "but couldn't find any police officer. Then I went to Martinez and couldn't find any. So when I came into Richmond I told a Richmond policeman. I was frightened because of the large number of gypsies. Otherwise I would not have allowed the woman to tell my fortune."

Wandering tribes of these Nomads have created considerable disturbance about the entire county and a determined effort to prevent further depredation will be made.

While frantic parents searched the city, young Eamon set blissfully out on his way to see the world. He saw part of the universe between this city and Berkeley. At the college city, the young wanderer was sighted by avigilant officer of the law.

"Whither away, thou youthful peregrinator," inquired the guardian of the law.

"Dunno, but I'm on my way," was Allen's answer.

"Never again" said Allen as 'dad' lifted the slipper for a gentle caress.

SENSATIONAL ATTEMPT TO ROB IN SAN PABLO IS MADE BY TWO THUGS

Dan Geraghty, one of two burglars who early last evening made a sensational but unsuccessful attempt to ransack the home of Antone F. Rose, 2 Church street, San Pablo, was shot twice in a running pistol battle. Blood streaming from a bullet wound in the head and arm, Geraghty fought his pursuers and it was only after a terrific battle with Constable John Moitoza that the man was finally gotten under control. James J. Hansen, Gerghty's partner in the attempted burglary was not injured, Hansen throwing up his hands at the first shot.

DISCOVERED BY ROSE

Geraghty and Hansen were discovered in the Rose home by Rose. Finding themselves discovered, Geraghty and Hansen ran from the house. Securing a revolver Rose gave chase, firing as he ran. Both bullets took effect, one tearing a gap in Geraghty's scalp and the second tearing the flesh of his arm.

Constable Moitoza in the mean. time joined the chase and captured Geraghty. The latter put up a desperate battle and it was necessary to club him into unconsiousness before he could be gotten under control. Geraghty was removed to the office of Dr. C. E. Camp, who resides next door to Rose. Dr. Camp treated the man's injuries. Geraghty was later removed to the Craven Hospital where he was given attention by Dr. U. S. Abbett.

Fearing that the man might break out of the hospital, he was removed to the city jail.

ARE YOUNG MEN

Hansen, who is apparently the leader of the pair is 22 years of age. He formerly resided in Los Angeles but recently has been living in San Francisco. He is a carpenter. Geraghty is but nineteen years of age. He is a teamster and resides in San Francisco.

At the police station both men refused to make any statement. Both were well dressed. Geraghty's clothing was almost torn from his body during the mele. He sustained a fractured nose; and numerous cuts and lacerations about the face and body during the fight with the officers.

The two men entered the Rose home shortly before 7 o'clock last night. Before discovery they had ransacked every room. They had piled their loot in a small bundle and were evidently preparing to leave when discovered by Rose.

When captured neither man was armed.

ROMANANCE IN HEEL OF SHOE; COUPLE WED

Whoever thought that a romance lurked in the heel of a shoe? Well it does. Recently Miss Josie Rodini, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Rodini of Stege stepped from a street car at San Pablo avenue and Fortieth street, Oakland. Her heel became fastened in a rail switch. A car was coming. W. J. McLaughlin, prominent employee of the Standard Oil company, standing on the corner saw Miss Rodini struggle in vain to remove her foot from the clutch of the switch. Then McLaughlin rushed across the street, grasped the young woman about the waist and lifted her to safety. The heel remained in the switch.

The couple were latter introduced and their engagement was recently announced. Yesterday they were married at a pretty ceremony in Oakland. The groom was attended by his brother, Walter J. McLaughlin of Salt Lake and the bride by her sister, Miss Susie Rodini.

WHY LABOR OPPOSES WAR

In an address before the International Peace Conference, the Editor of the Labor Clarion sums up "Why Labor Opposes War." He says:

"In treating the subject assigned me as a subsidiary to the general topic, 'War and thet Worker,' I am not called upon to advense any theories as to the means of preventing war, nor am I expected to speculate concerning the possibilities of total prevention. Rather is it my duty to set forth the reasons for the opposition of the worker to war.

"First among the reasons may be cited the fact that there are better means of adjusting differences, removing misunderstandings and ending controversies than through the spilling of human blood and the destruction of laboriously produced treasure, and the worker proposes those means shall be applied in order that humanity man mount to liftier heights of progress and civilization.

"Labor is opposed to war because it can be productive of no good and must of necessity infliet untold hardships and miseries upon, not only those actually engaged in it, but upon the human race as a whole. War can mean to the worker calamity and nothing more. There can be no gain, no profit, no lightening of toil, no brightening of life. It can only bring to him pain of body and anguish of spirit, wounds, disease, premature death, and to his friends and family suffering and ruin of the direst kind. In earlier times even the humble toiler sometimes received substantial material advantages from a victorious war, but modern warfare can not even appeal to him for support in its carnage upon this base ground. While on the other hand the financial as well as the other burdens of war, must rest vesy largely upon his shoulders and the shoulders of his offspring for long years after the close of a modern conflict.

"Labor is opposed to war because it sets us back in our struggle to filt the weight from the shoulders of heavily burdened men by violating the finer sensibilities of the race and re-establishing the ruder.

Labor is oposed to war because the greater burdens of war are always packed upon the backs of those who have little or nothing to say as to whether war shall be.

"Labor is opposed to war because the workers favor freedom and independence, and there can be no freedom, no independence, no liberty in war. All must bow to the dictates of a military master. Any army must be subservient and slavist in order to have any chance for victory. Military disipline is destructive of individual liberty and individual initiative and judgment, and thus leads in a direction contrary to the ideals and hopes of the worker.

"But labor does not base its opposition to war upon purely selfish considerations. It takes into account the harm that war brings to the human race as a whole, the suffering it inflicts upon frail women and helpless children, the causeless hate it engandes between naturaly friendly souls, the way it turns tender-hearted men into vicous monsters craving the blood of their brothers, placing them on a parity with the wild beasts of the wood and the jungle, the destruction of life and property that it entails, all to no purpose save to satisfy the craving for profits of the manufacturers of implements of destruction.

"The process of advancement of the human race is a slow one and anything that hinders or retards its progress is detrimental to all society. War, in spite of the assertions of the militarist to the contrary, does interfere with advancing civilization by weakoning the confidence and energy of those who promote it.

"Peace in the world is absolutely essential to the working out of social justice, because war draws public attention away from the objects of injustice which must be attached in order to be removed and centers the thought of humanity almost entirely upon victory through slaughter. And the end of every war injects the soldier with his training into civil affairs and changes the mode and method of conducting them, and this always results in stagnation and reaction. The way of the soldier is hasty and fraught with greater possibilities of error than is the patient, thoughtful and deliberate action of the civilian. Therefore our interests can best be served by rgidly adhering te a policy of peace. This peace, of course must be founded upon justice, and not a peace purchased at the price of progress toward a goal of better things.

"As modern war can hold out no hope of possible gain to the worker and always the burdens he must carry there can be no reason advanced, of a material character, as to why he should favor war as against peace.

"Viewing the situation from its moral side the worker can meet upon common ground with all other advocates of peace and cooperate with them in perfect harmony. Life is precious to every human being brought into the world. War sacrifices life, while peace preserves it. Then why have war?

"War always wipes out the very flower of our manhood and leaves the less capable to promote the arts of peace, and this in itself exercises detrimental influences upon progress which are beyond calculation, in mathematical terms.

"Nations that have long periods of peace have also enjoyed a high degree of civilization. If this be true, then who can say that if the world had never had war our civilization would not now be much farther advanced? It is true, of course, that some wars have lead to advancement, but those were in a world that engaged in wars, and even these wars, it can not be said, would have been necessary in a world that knew no such force.

"We have had thousands of years of experience with war, and the workers propose we shall try the walks of peace. Every legitimate move to bring about the establishment of peace in the world can count upon the hearty co-operation of the organized toilers of the earth."

The Big Serial

It is usual in publishing a serial similar to "The Mistery of the Stolen Cheese of the Janitor's Secret," which will appear exclusively in the Daily News to inflict upon the reader a short outline of what is to be dished out. In keeping with this form, the Daily News will herewith present a short introduction by the author Mr. Percy Algernon Doughnut.

By Percy Algernon Doughnut

In writing my great masterpiece, "The mystery of the Stolen Cheese or the Janitor's Secret," I have given to the public the greatest brainstorm ever perpetrated by a man with no brains. several months of hard graft in a blacksmith shop served to toughen my muscles and I soon able to present to the people a serial which in all justice to myself, can be classed among the world's greatest pieces of literature. It is uplifting in nature and tone and is so simple that even a grammar school boy can read it without injuring his morals.

It has become a habit with great novelists, like myself to give the readers a short synopsis of what is to come. This is only fair. Then the reader can blame no one but himself. The story in brief is this: The hero loves a classy chicken, who slings hash in a local hash house. She is class and no mistake. Then comes the villian. He is a rough guy. He chews gum and wears his hat on one ear. This bird also loves Mary, the queen of the hash house.

A piece of cheese in the hash house is stolen. The hero is suspected. Despite his plea of innocence, the hero is convicted and sent to jail for 5000 years. The testimony of the villian is a part cause of this. Then the old boy rolls into the hash house one fair day and says to Mary "Cumon kid les get married." Here's where the real action starts. However, the first few installments are worthy of notice, but it is not until the hero has been incarcerated in the hoose gow that the sensational developments are uncorked.

Before closing the introduction, I wish to state that the action is all local.

I desire also to advise all with weak hearts to refrain from reading further. This tale is so rough that it takes a gink with a mighty strong heart to get through. The love scenes are especially touching. THE FIRST INSTALLMENT OF THIS GREAT SERIAL WILL APPEAR TOMORROW MORNING.

---Merchants in all lines of business in Richmond give American Trading Stamps. Patronize these stores and always demand your "American Stamps."

---Never has a trading stamp existed that gives as much to the people as American Stamps

---And the important fact, which has made American Stamps so popular, is because it requires only 500 to fill a book.

SAY YOU SAW IT IN THE THE DAILY NEWS

LUCE HAS GREAT SCHEME TO HAND MERRY HA HA TO THE DEMON JINX

Something must be done. Richmond hasn't won a game away from the home lot this season with the exception of a game with Louie Lowenberg's Free Lunch Brigade of San Rafael. Other campaigns have been failures. But the locals have made up for this defeat by winning every contest on the home lot. Next Sunday Willie Luce has decided that Richmond will defeat Sebastopol. Before continuing our weary way, let us pause to remark that next Sunday's game will virtually decide the championship of the entire state.

Sebastopol has eased th skids un- Sebastopol has eased the skids under and Richmond has handed out similar treatment to the Apple kids on two separate dates. This contest ladies and gents, tells the story. It will also decide wthether or not stragetic Bill Luce can slip one over on Kid Jinx. The Kid has succeeded in grabbing a major- it yot the decisions but we are confident that this time the famous old pleasurer marrer will be badly stung.

Bill has perused Noah Webster's effort with great diligence. Hh has delved into ancient history. But it was not until the other night that a great light dawned on the handsome manager of the local club. Bill was pouring over the History of Which and Why when his train of thought was wrecked by a real idea.

Grabbing his telephone, Bill called up our office and says "I got a idea It's a peach, too."

"Yea" we answers "Wotaya doin' with a idea?"

"List," returned Willie, "Do yuh know why we are losing every game we play away from home."

We began to get serious. Apparently Bill wasn't as strong upstairs as we had always believed.

"Now listen, Bill "we says" Yuh get right into your cot and forget. The first thing yuh know you'llu be as bughouse as Yoe McNamara."

"Don't yuh worry about me," answers the cherub faced manager of the Elks "I know whereof I speak. Here's the idea:- Next Sunday we start for Sebastopol from Richmond at 8 o'clock in the morning. This will be the earliest trip of the season and I am confident that it will augur victory."

"Great idea, Bill," we answers "Perhaps you're right. Anyway so long as yh yon't uncork any dope or score board fairy tales we'll fall."

So now, friends and fellow citizens, the deed has been did. Next Sunday the fans will leave on the 8 o'clock ship for San Rafael. There they will board the train for the land of apple blossoms.

Will we win?

If we could truthfully answer this question, we'd wager every cent of the thirty-five cents we won on last Sunday's game. But baseball as Julius Shakespear formerly said "Is a queer thing" and while we are confident of victory our knees are none too strong.

The Elks should win. The boys have faced Kramer before and have always hit him hard. Sunday a week ago, Stanley held the Elks to 6 hits. Last Sunday the locals gathering sixteen safeties.

So far the Elks have always succeeded in hitting a pitcher hard after the first game. If they can do it Sunday Richmond will win.

Frank Gordon, who will officiate as chief executioner for the Elks next Sunday, is in excellent form. The famous speed king of the club is desirous of winning.

"I sure do want to win," said Fatty yesterday. "I'm going to do my durndest to bring home the bacon and I think that I can hold Sebastopol down. At least I am going to do my best."

And that's all we can ask. Gordon almost vanquished the Apple boys in their last meeting at Sebastopol. The boys failed to hit safely in the game. Will Richmond run true to precedent and slam Kramer's offering all over the lot? Or will this guy Jinx be on the job early and throw the skids under our boys?

Sunday at 3 o'clock we will know.
